EDITORIAL

APPOMATTOX PORTRAITS

Before the Appomattox supervisors this week at their regular monthly meeting, was a suggestion that the number of portraits in the court house be increased to include likenesses of additional outstanding citizens of the county who have passed on, said portraits to be furnished free to the county.

It is indeed fitting to memorialize the service of those who have rendered outstanding contributions to the growth and development of Appomattox. However, the list of such citizens is a long one and it is doubtful if they could be adequately displayed in the court room of the county. Therefore, we offer the suggestion that all such portraits available be accepted by the county now and temporarily be placed in the court room, and that when the restoration is completed at the old court house village, that the restored old county court house building be made a county museum and that the portraits of all save the judges of the court be transferred to same. There they will be seen and admired not only by county people, but by thousands of visitors as well. In the meantime, however it would be poor spirit on the part of the county not to accept any preferred portraits.

KEEP GOING

During the years since 1929, the school graduate, whether from high school or college, has been faced with a dark economic future. Jobs were few and far between. Often capable young men and women had to take places below their ability or simply loaf.

Now, for the first time in six years, the tide has definitely turned and the world of business awaits with more room for the graduate. Many concerns find it necessary to fill out their personnel and find that the graduate is best qualified to fill the job. We should like to point out, however that ability to find a job should not deter the high school graduate from going on to college. They had best keep on and prepare themselves for the larger life that awaits the qualified man or woman. The financial set up now is attractive for the ambitious graduate.

GOOD WORK, CREWE

Last week's Crewe (Va.) Chronicle carried across the top of its front the arresting headline: "100 Perish In Fire Here." We had not heard of any such tragic fire at Crewe so we read the article.

It developed that the fire in question had destroyed a chicken house and that the 100 killed were chickens. That was an anti climax. But there followed immediately after the news article, an editorial which raised the question the word "school" or the word "hotel" had been substituted in place of the words "chicken house" in the story and "children" or "people" in place of "chickens"... what a difference would have been made. And then the newspaper pointed out the need of better and modern fire fighting equipment in the town.

We congratulate our contempory on an effective and timely piece of reporting. It is added proof of the fact that you nearly always find the community newspaper on the side of civic welfare and progress.

GIVE IT A TRY OUT

A community's spirit should keep abreast of its material progress. Appomattox is making great gains in material progress. It is fast becoming one of the most prosperous business towns in this part of Virginia, and when present building improvements are completed it will be one of the most attractive in appearance.

We urge that civic spirit and civic pride keep pace. We once fell out with a local person who kept referring to Appomattox as a "village." We would soon be only a crossroads post office if we who live here looked upon it as such. The world loves a winner. People rejoice to flock to a LIVE TOWN. A progressive spirit is the best asset of any community. Let's give that a thought, and a try out here in Appomattox.

Women Who Have Pains Try CARDUI Next Time!

On account of poor nourishment, many women suffer functional pains at certain times, and it is for these that Cardui is offered on the record of the safe relief it has brought and the good it has done in helping to overcome the cause of womanly discomfort. Mrs. Cole Young, of Leesville, La., writes: "I was suffering with irregular . . . I had quite a lot a pain which made me nervous. I took Cardui and found it helped me in every way, making me regular and stopping the pain. This quieted my nerves, making my health much better." . . . If Cardui does not benefit YOU, consult a physician.

IN THE MATTER OF THE ESTATE OF FLOYD A. GILLIAM DECEASED.
EX PARTE
IN VACATION April 24, 1936.

It appearing to the Judge of the Circuit Court of Appomattox County, Virginia, that a report of the accounts of The Peoples National Bank of Farmville, Virginia, Executor of Floyd A. Gilliam, deceased, and of the debts and demands against the said decedent has been filed in the office of the clerk of the Circuit Court of Appomattox County, Virginia, and that more than six months has elapsed since the qualification of the said Executor.

NOW THEREFORE, on motion of H. H. Gilliam, one of the legatees of the said estate, it is ordered that the creditors of the said Floyd A. Gilliam, if any there be, do on the 30th day of May, 1936, at 10:00 o'clock A. M., before the Judge of the Circuit Court of Appomattox County, Virginia, at his office at Charlotte C. H., Va., show cause, if any they can, against the payment and delivery of the money and other estate of the said Floyd A. Gilliam, deceased, to his heirs and legatees, without requiring a refunding bond of them or any of them.

It is further ordered that a copy of this order be published once a week for four successive weeks in The Times Virginian, a newspaper published in Appomattox County, Virginia.

Ginger Rogers Varies Her Hairdress

Ginger Rogers' latest coiffures, as displayed in "Follow the Fleet," feature four different styles, of which two are illustrated herewith. The center pose is one with classic effect, the hair being parted in the middle and brushed back. The ends in three rolls are coiled in a double figure eight and pinned flat at the nape of the neck. At right and left are two aspects of a coiffure parted on the left, and with the ends set into clusters of curls over

Rubinoff Holds World Record for Broadcasting

Rubinoff and his violin—and Chevrolet—are a combination that few, if any, radio listeners in the United States have not received in their homes via the air. The famous violinist and his Stradivarius, stars of the Chevrolet Musical Moments programs, have the distinction of going on the air from more broadcasting stations than any other program in the history of radio. Three hundred and seventy-eight stations broadcast Rubinoff three times a week, a total of 1134 fifteen-minute programs. That figures out at 283 hours, and if one week's programs were broadcast one after the other, day and night, it would require 11 days. The illustration shows Rubinoff, carrying his precious violin, posing with his car after a special appearance at Detroit.
